A message from the Chair

Dear CAIPE Member

Welcome to the 2019 second edition of our CAIPE Members Newsletter. I wonder if the early spring weather has enticed our readers outside more as this month we are a little light on articles, events, innovations and IPE/ IPCP news.

We would welcome academics, practitioners, students, PhD/Masters students, service users and careers to share their experiences of innovations, research, developments, publications, modules, curricula, simulations, workshops and facilitation in Interprofessional education and Interprofessional collaborative practice. So please consider submitting to the March Newsletter bulletin@caipe.org by 25 March or share local events and news.

In the last Newsletter we introduced a Guest Editorial and have invited Board members to submit but again this early spring weather appears to have deterred submissions! If you would like to submit a Guest Editorial please email me.

This month we have the CAIPE Board meeting on 13 March and one of the main items for discussion is conversion to a Charitable Incorporated Organisation. This involves a new constitution which soon you will be asked to vote for or against (but not as dramatic as Brexit!) so keep a lookout for emails. We will also receive updates of our 12 Working Groups which as a member you are welcome to engage with and contribute.

On 14 March we are delighted that the Centre for Interprofessional Education and Learning, University of Nottingham is hosting the Corporate Forum 'IPE: The Students' Perspective'. If you are local to the University of Nottingham and would like to attend please email admin@caipe.org

I hope you find this newsletter informative and I look forward to receiving your Newsletter submissions.

The community paradigm: why public services need radical change and how it can be achieved

This report sets out the case for a deep shift in public services based on a completely new relationship between citizen and state. This relationship rejects the hierarchical and transactional mindsets of traditional service models that all too often bypass people's assets and capabilities. Instead, it fosters collaboration between the public servant and the citizen, sharing power and resources more directly with people, to embed prevention and ensure future sustainability.

Happy now? Lessons for economic policy makers from a focus on subjective well-being

This paper takes a wide-ranging look at how the collection and analysis of wellbeing data can inform policy-makers concerned with raising the nation's living standards. Wellbeing data differs from the other economic living standards metrics that measure objective factors such as income and expenditure as it is collected by asking people to rate their own wellbeing – measuring it from their own perspective.

Call for abstracts: 2nd Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice for Africa Conference

You are invited to register and submit an abstract(s) for the 2nd Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice for Africa Conference to be held from

- 30 July to 2 August 2019 at the
- Amref International University, Nairobi, Kenya

This conference provides an opportunity for participants to discuss ideas, devise and test strategies to mobilise concerted action to improve health and well-being for individuals, families and communities across Africa.

The conference is driven by the conviction that interprofessional action to improve working together will effect change, enhance quality of care, ensure safety, and optimise deployment of human resources on the continent.

The conference is a collaboration between the Africa Interprofessional Education Network (AfrIPEN), Sigma Theta Tau's International Tau Lambda at Large Chapter, the WHO-FIC Collaborating Centre for the African region and Amref International University. We welcome all health collaboration champions, educators and researchers to Nairobi, Kenya from 30 July to 2 August 2019.

Whether you are a health or social practitioner, service user, student, academic, manager, policy maker or researcher, the conference will inspire and be an opportunity to compare perspectives, exchange experiences, share expertise and transform current understandings.

The overarching theme of the conference is Building an Interprofessional Education and Collaborative Practice culture: from policy to practice. The sub themes look to explore policy as catalyst for interprofessional education and collaborative practice (IPECP); evidence and best practice for IPECP; culture influencing IPECP; and breaking down professional silos for collaborative practice.

- URGENT: Deadline to submit abstract for a preconference workshop: 31 January 2019
- Deadline to submit abstract for an oral, poster (Round 1) or in-conference workshop: 1 March 2019

For more information visit the conference website: <https://interprofessional2019.org/>

We are looking forward to welcome you in Nairobi!
